Diamond vs. Colored Gemstones

When Americans think of gems, they think of diamonds. DeBeers had been preaching them, "A Diamond is Forever," and "Only a Diamond Will Do."

Many people have the mistaken notion that diamonds are the rarest and the most valuable gemstone. The fact is, the public holds more than 500 million carats of gem diamonds. There is a glut of diamonds in the market with the discovery of diamonds in Australia. The diamond prices were kept artificially high by manipulating the market by the diamond cartel.

On the other hand, many of the colored gemstones are many times rarer than diamond. They are eagerly sought after by the collectors. Price of rare gems like tanzanite had been steadily going up. Experts say that this trend will continue into the foreseeable future.

Given a choice between a diamond and a rare colored gem, go for the rare colored gem. You will have the true heirloom of the future.

The best place to buy genuine colored gemstones is SpecialGifts.com .

We Only Sell Genuine Gemstones

There are a lot of synthetic and man-made gemstones in the market. These do not command the value and rarity of the true gemstones. They may look prettier.

Natural gemstones may have minor inclusions and other imperfections. These add to their value to some extent as we can be assured that they are genuine. The synthetics will look perfect. But they really have no intrinsic value.

Don't buy the fakes; buy genuine stones from SpecialGifts.com instead.

Custom Designs, Works of Art

Most jewelers carry generic jewelry made in factories. They all look alike.

Not so with SpecialGifts.com. Our jewelry pieces are mostly one-of-a-kind works of art. They are custom designed and crafted by expert artisans.

These jewelry art masterpieces with their rare gemstones will become the treasured heirlooms of tomorrow. Best of all, it is an investment you can wear now.
